

POTOMAC INTERCEPTOR-LONG TERM ODOR ABATEMENT PROJECT
CLARA BARTON PARKWAY AT I-495 (CABIN JOHN, MD)

OVERVIEW

As part of a region wide effort to improve the quality and durability of sewers throughout the Washington Metropolitan Area, DC Water will be joining Loudon, Fairfax and Montgomery Counties in the construction of six facilities throughout the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia that will work as a system in collectively helping to reduce odors emitting from the Potomac Interceptor Sewer, as well as prolong the life of the pipeline.

One of the specific odor abatement facilities for this project will be located on Clara Barton Parkway in Cabin John, Maryland, east of I-495. As the building will sit on property owned by the National Park Service (NPS), DC Water has worked closely with this agency to develop a design that will have minimal impact on the site. (See back page for construction location map)
